

ACTIVITIES TO ENHANCE CURIOSITY

In Children

Plan field trips

Field trips encourage children to explore new things and talk about them. A trip to a farm, supermarket, or historical place is an excellent way to inspire children's curious minds.

Visit a library

Take children to libraries and let them explore books on different topics. Knowing about various topics enhances their knowledge and curiosity.

Involve them in science experiments

Experiments help children learn a concept better. It gives them a sense of achievement and excites their curiosity.

Plan group discussions

Group discussions enhance knowledge by promoting the exchange of ideas. Regular discussions on different topics help in active learning.

Hold storytelling sessions

Regular exchange of real and fictional stories entertains children and makes them more curious and eager to learn new things.

Discuss facts about family

As parents, you may discuss your family members, birthplaces, and habits. This will help pique children's curiosity about their heritage.
