

Tips For Complimenting Your Boyfriend

When he's working hard on something and seems stressed out, offer a cup of coffee and gently whisper, "I know you can do it because I haven't seen anyone else as hardworking and determined as you."

Say things such as "you're so sexy!" when he sends you a selfie right after a shower or as he's getting out of the pool.

Avoid unnecessary flattering when he is upset or not in the mood to talk.

Tell him he looks good or charming whenever he dresses up for your dates.

Don't overdo your compliments by saying them one after the other, making it awkward for him to respond.

Say whatever you say with genuine passion and emotions, and use your body language to do most of the talking.

