

Points To Share With Children Who Use Messaging Apps

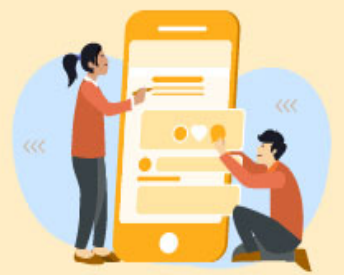

Don't share real names on social media apps or sync the device's address book with the app, as it could jeopardize the privacy and lead to online threats.

Disable the location feature in the privacy settings.

Supervise children closely in the initial stage of using a messaging app.

Have an open conversation with children about using the texting app responsibly and safely.

Always set secure privacy settings and instruct children not to accept messages or calls from unknown people.

Instruct them to seek permission before making or receiving a voice or video call to ensure privacy.
