

Tips

For Responding To An Ex Who Wants To Return

Pause before replying to their texts or call, as it may seem like you have been expecting their call if you respond immediately.

Don't decide anything before hearing them out, and maintain calmness.

Think about the reason you broke up and how you feel at present.

Don't be too friendly, and maintain a casual but respectful tone while responding.

Clear your doubts and ask what made them reach out to you after all this time.

Only agree to meet them or continue chatting if you want to get back together or end the conversation if you don't wish to patch up.

