

Being A Good Husband And An Ideal Dad

Love and protect her both emotionally and physically to make her feel secure.

Be available and support her when she is down or needs help with a problem.

Practice patience and have good behavior that shows you respect her.

Don't leave all the chores to her and divide them equally or lend a hand when she has too much work or is sick.

Pamper her, especially when she is pregnant.

Help raise your child by being there for them, supporting their school-work and teaching them valuable lessons.

Be a role model to your children by showing them what respecting others means while teaching them to avoid the dangers of the real world..

