

How Music During — Pregnancy Can Help — The Baby In The Womb?

If the baby likes the music you listen to during pregnancy, they recognize it, and you can use the same music to soothe and relax them after they're born.

Although the baby may not understand the song's meaning, it can help improve their auditory senses and concentration power.

Music may improve your unborn baby's reflexes as the baby may react to the vibrations and try to move along with the beats.

The type of music you listen to may shape your baby's personality as they grow up. For example, soft and soothing music may make them calm individuals.