

Dealing With A Child With

Narcissistic Traits

Be firm and adapt practical ways to explain and talk to them without being aggressive.

Make them understand they are not entitled to anything anymore than their friends and siblings. Hence they cannot bully others.

Be empathetic with your approaches, and don't ridicule them, as it can hurt their inflated ego and attract a negative reaction.

Practice moderate conversations at home where they can learn that listening is as important as talking.

Show them how responsibilities need to be shared and how they need to be considerate towards others.

