

Questions To Ask Before Choosing A Swimming Instructor For Your Child

What is the swimming instructor's qualification?

Ideally, it is recommended to go for an instructor with a Red Cross certification in water safety, first aid, and lifeguarding .

What is their experience with children?

Go for someone with many years of experience teaching children swimming since they are likely to be aware of children's fears and safety .

What is the instructor's approach to teaching?

Check if they are encouraging with their ways and words and create a positive and fun learning environment. Find out if they follow a step-by-step method and you will be allowed to watch your child during lessons .

What is their online or peer review?

A good instructor would be known and have good feedback that you can check online or with fellow parents.
