

Start the letter with a general thank you and state the specifics, if any, such as thank them for their help with the catering, flowers, or meals.

If someone helped financially, thank them without specifying the amount of money they shared.

It's okay if you cannot write long paragraphs. Write concise and to-the-point notes that convey your thoughts accurately.

Speak your heart and try not to be too formal but be sincere with your words.

Don't feel compelled to send the letter immediately, but try to send it within two weeks.

Mom Junction

condolences-sympathy_00838061/

Source: https://www.momjunction.com/articles/funeral-thank-you-messages-