

Things To Consider While Nicknaming Your Sister

Pick a nickname that resonates with her personality. So observe if she is the bubbly type, the serious one, or someone who looks out for you a lot.

Don't give her a name based on her insecurities, such as height, facial, or body features.

Give a name to compliment her talent. It may take her by surprise to see her annoying sibling admiring her, but it will also convey your love for her.

Siblings may tease each other by their crush's name, which is normal. But don't call her by that name in front of her friends, as it may embarrass her.

If there is a K-pop Idol or any other music artist she admires, why not call her by their name? It will make her blush and love her new name.

