

Safe Handling Tips For Automatic Curlers

Make sure to read and follow the instructions from the manufacturer, as different curlers may have different ways of operating.

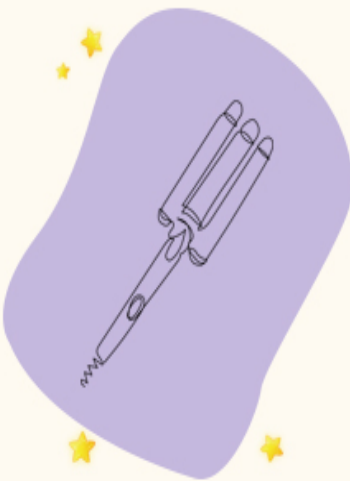

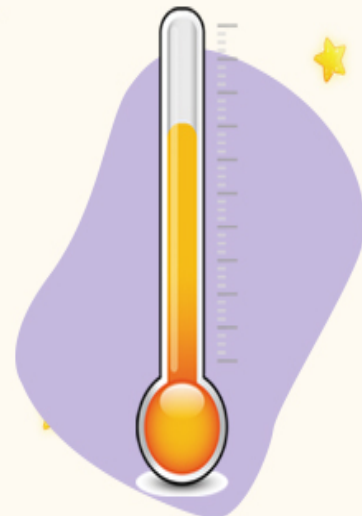

Use a heat protectant spray or serum before styling to prevent hair damage.

Pay attention to how long you leave your hair inside the automatic curler to avoid injuries.

Divide your hair into sections and securely tie back the unused section to prevent it from getting caught in the curler.

Adjust the heat to the appropriate setting according to your hair type.

If the curler comes with a removable barrel, securely attach it before using it.

Do not wrap the cord around the curler, as it can be damaging and dangerous.

Use a heat-resistant pad to place the curler while in use.
