

How To Pick Toys And Gifts For 10-Month-Old Babies

NON TOXIC

Safety

Look for items that are made of non-toxic materials and do not have small parts that a child could swallow.

Developmental stage

Look for gifts that support this developmental stage, such as toys that promote fine motor skills or encourage exploration.

Age-appropriateness

Toys that are too advanced may be frustrating, while those that are too simple may not hold their attention.

Durability

Infants at this age can be rough on toys, so it is important to look for durable items that can withstand wear and tear.

Attractiveness

Choose toys that are bright in color to attract the attention of the child.

Personal preferences

If the child has a particular interest, such as animals or music, consider purchasing a gift that aligns with this interest.
