

What To Look For In An IDEAL BABY SLEEPWEAR

The sleepwear should be stretchable enough for the baby to move around comfortably.

If your baby is over nine months old, they should sleep in comfortable, tight-fitting clothes.

Check for buttons or other attachments that may come loose and pose a choking or strangulation hazard.

Check the seller's reviews to know about their reputation in baby sleepwear.

Make sure the neckline is not too tight or too loose.

Pick sleepwear that is easily washable without degrading the fabric's quality.

Reference:

1. Children's Sleepwear Regulations; CPSC