

Different Types Of BIBS — And Why Your Baby Needs One

Types of bibs

Drool bibs

Small bibs that can be worn anytime, even when the baby is not eating

Feeding bibs

Large enough to cover the baby's top wear, these bibs are specifically used when the baby is eating

Sleeve or smock bibs

Cover the baby from neck to knee, protecting the baby from spit-ups and food spills

Disposable bibs

Travel-friendly bibs to use once and then dispose of

Reasons for using bibs

Protects baby's clothes from food stains

Prevent baby's clothes from getting wet due to food spills and spit

Keeps the baby's neck and chest dry, preventing rashes caused by drooling

Reduces baby laundry by keeping clothes clean and dry
