

The Common Types Of Single Men

The workaholic

Their hectic schedule may prevent them from committing to a relationship because they lack time to give.

The picky one

A perfect person is hard to find, and if a man is very particular about it, he may prefer staying single till he comes across one.

The friend zoned one

Sadly some guys are friend-zoned by girls because of their outgoing and understanding personalities, while on the other hand, the guys may be just trying to create chemistry.

The multiple options one

Guys who don't want to commit to one person because they don't want to lose the opportunity to flirt with others may stay single to keep their options open.

The happily single

Some men are single because they are genuinely happy with themselves and don't seem to be looking for a love interest in their lives.

