

What To Expect From A Relationship With An Aromantic?

An aromantic may want to be together with someone but more like close friends rather than partners.

Even though they may not have a romantic attraction, they may still be exclusively committed to you and expect the same from you.

Sometimes, the aromantic may want a relationship for a company without much care for physical intimacy.

The relationship may be more platonic based on common interests and emotional connection rather than pure love.

Aromantics may want to be with someone solely to have their own family.