

WALKING BACK TO ONE ANOTHER FOR THAT Second Tryst With Love

Don't cut each other off entirely but take some time apart to reflect on what went wrong.

Pick a quiet place for lunch or coffee to meet and talk about how you both feel.

Be open to his side of the story and try not to get defensive but acknowledge your mistakes.

Calmly state what drove you to walk out and how you expected him to react.

After everything is said and understood, ensure you are both on the same page about getting back together.

Do not jump back into the relationship or move back together immediately after the meeting.

Go on dates and revisit your favorite places, recollecting the fond memories.

Meanwhile, try to assess his behavior and be mindful of yours to understand if getting back together is the right decision.